

The ANZTLA *E*Journal

Australian and New Zealand Theological Library Association  No. 7 (2011)

Welcome to the seventh issue of The ANZTLA EJournal - the official serial publication of the Australian and New Zealand Theological Library Association. This issue presents material from the twenty-sixth conference held in Brisbane, Australia from July 7th – 10th, 2011.

“2011 marks the 400th anniversary of the publication of the Authorised Version of the Holy Bible, otherwise known as the King James Bible, probably the most influential book in the Western world, and a catalyst for change over centuries and across continents,” (Susan Thomas, p. 19).

Catalysts for change was the theme chosen for this conference. A catalyst is a “person or thing that precipitates an event” or a “substance that increases the rate of a chemical reaction without itself undergoing any permanent chemical change”. The presentations reflect how theological librarians, their work and their tools, can be catalysts for change, but also remind us to be careful to ensure that we not get used up in the process.

Eve James

Editor

Contents

2	Conference Summary	74	Moving Beyond Citation Analysis
7	DDC 23: An Overview	84	Using Technology to Succeed in Theological Study
18	A Catalyst for Change	94	Research Support in Theological Libraries
26	Informed Learning : A Catalyst for Change in Theological Libraries?	104	Oral History: Preservation of Life Stories
50	Reflective Practice: The What, the Why and the How, of Reflection?	113	Running an English-Language Library for the Literary Disabled
64	A New ‘ERA’ for Research	118	Being a Catalyst for Change