

After Whom is Your Library Named?

by Kerrie Stevens & Eve James
ANZTLA EJournal Editorial Team

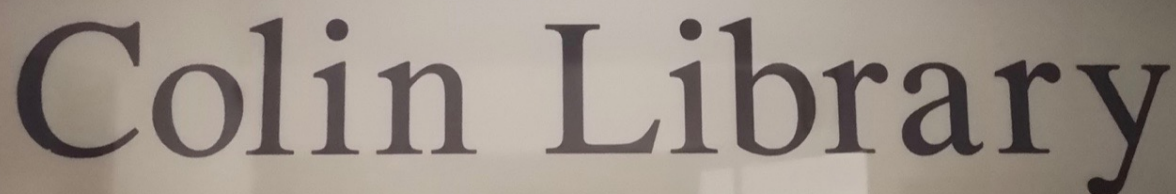

Some of our libraries are named after people. Have you ever wondered about who those people were, and how they came to have a library named after them? We are keen to know those stories and you are invited to investigate and report! After whom is your library named? Why was the library named after this person? What were the circumstances behind this? When did it happen? After Whom is Your Library Named? will be regularly published in The ANZTLA EJournal.

Due to our not having a 'conference' issue this year, the first two submissions appear here. In the future they will be published in the first issue of the year, the non-conference issue. If your library is named after someone, please consider doing a little research and submitting your library's story for publication!

The first libraries to share their stories are:

The James Wallace Memorial Library

Colin Library
