

Awards & Recognition

Honorary Life Membership

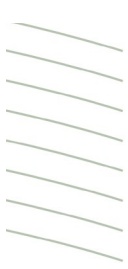

Honorary Life Membership is awarded to an individual who has made a contribution of outstanding and lasting importance to theological libraries and has a record of active involvement in the Association. The individual has made an impact to theological libraries in Australia and/or New Zealand.

Kerrie Burn

“In the various roles you have undertaken, such as Hub Manger, Mannix Library Manager and University Librarian, we have been privileged to have someone of your experience and professional profile leading the library, through your affiliation with ALIA, ANZTLA and Atla. This has underpinned your work in rationalising separate library digital resources contracts for numerous digital assets, into one university contract; for example, one iteration of Atla rather than several institutional contracts. This has provided member libraries and their host institutions with an exponential increase in resources, without the financial overheads, which has been strategically significant. A “Win-Win” for everybody. Also, of strategic significance has been your work in developing one catalogue for some members of the collegiate network, which has promoted synergies and improved ways of interacting for those members of the collegiate library. Finally, your work at a governance level, working with the Vice Chancellor and UD academics, has ensured that professional standards of resource management and service delivery are maintained across the collegiate network.”
