This issue of the ANZTLA EJournal features some very interesting papers, as well as the always useful ANZTLA Statistics, and a report of the South Australian Chapter of ANZTLA detailing another busy year. Miranda Fyfield describes a fascinating course in rare book cataloguing whilst Kerrie Stevens provides some evidence that library use can result in better grades for students. Have you undertaken some training or attended a course that might be of interest to your ANZTLA colleagues? Why not write a summary of it and share your knowledge by submitting it to the ANZTLA EJournal...

More Loans = Better Grades: An Analysis Correlating Library Usage and Unit Grades

Kerrie Stevens

Abstract

In response to the question, “Does the number of books checked out by a student correlate with higher grades?” this analysis looks at student grades for both HE (Higher Education) and VET (Vocational Education & Training) units and the number of average library loans borrowed whilst achieving those grades. It was found that, on average and in general, more loans results in better grades.

Note: Data for student grades and library borrowing was taken from 2013, but it is believed that the principles demonstrated by the apparent correlation between loans and grades achieved would be comparable across any year. The 2013 data did not include ebook access so this could be another level of comparison for future research into this area.

"Does the number of books checked out by a student correlate with higher grades?"

Background

A recent conference paper (Keck 2013) asked the question, "Does the number of books checked out by a student correlate with higher grades?" This question prompted me to think that this is something I'd like to know with regards to Harvest Bible College.

At Harvest, library use is changing due to the library no longer being 'down the hallway' from classrooms. Patrons no longer call in to look at something, they have to make the specific decision to organize a visit to the library, set aside time and make the effort to come in. It seems the 'call into the library to check something on the way past' mentality of the past is now long gone.

More students are now studying with Harvest in an online capacity, either wholly or partially online (almost three-quarters of all HE units in Semester 1 2014 were online). This means that patrons are likely to not even be located in the same city as the library, let alone close enough to visit regularly. How the library responds to this is likely to impact on student grades into the future. An increasing number of ebooks are being purchased to provide access to valuable resources no matter where the student is located. Ebook usage has gradually increased and continues to do so.

This analysis looks at HE and VET units studied in face-to-face mode across 2013. Student identities have been removed to protect privacy, but grades and borrowing numbers are accurate.

Brief Literature Review

Over recent decades, there have been numerous studies into the correlation between library use and grade achievement. Many of the studies are far more detailed and in depth than this overview focusing on Harvest Bible College, however, the findings of previous studies indicate a similar result.

"Students who use the library have a higher grade point average"

An internal study from the University of Huddersfield "suggests a strong correlation between library usage and degree results" (Stone, Pattern & Ramsden 2011, 5); however this relationship is not a causal one (Stone & Ramsden 2013, 546). Soria, Fransen and Nackerud (2013, 147) published as recently as April 2013 that their study found that "students who use the library have a higher grade point average (GPA)".

Davidson, Rollins and Cherry's (2013, 74) research demonstrates "the impact that the library has on student success" when electronic resources are considered and this could be an area for further research for Harvest Bible College, and others.

Inclusions

Data was collated for 2013 (Semesters 1 and 2 HE and Terms 1-2-3-4 (VET) from the student management system, Paradigm. Library circulation history data was collated for the same period from the Koha Library Management System (LMS). An analysis of the correlation between grades achieved and circulation history for any further back than 2013 is not possible due to the Koha LMS only being implemented in February 2013. Circulation history data prior to that date is unavailable.

Method

To start, on-campus units were identified from archived timetables and listed in an excel spreadsheet. Next, students attending those classes, and their overall unit grades achieved for each unit undertaken in each semester of 2013 were added. Students who withdrew from a unit or failed were not included in the list. Library circulation history was then added with the number of items borrowed by each student added to the table. Student names were then removed and the list order jumbled to avoid accidental identification.

Once the lists were anonymised some analysis could take place. Firstly, it was calculated how many of each grade level were achieved in each semester/term.

HE Analysis

| Grade | # Achieved |
|-------|------------|

HE Semester 2 2013

Then the number of loans for each grade achieved was added to allow for the average loans per grade to be calculated.

It should be noted that although VET units achieve a C-Competent or NYC-Not Yet Competent mark, actual grades achieved are recorded as part of the way Harvest Bible College functions. This is useful with regards to upholding excellence (i.e. motivating the student to perform to a high standard), to assist with their personal development (growth) and to assist those transitioning from VET to HE (course progression). This assists our and other institutions to evaluate the student's level of academic ability.

Due to VET's emphasis on practical training, rather than in-depth academic research and analysis as is required for HE, the average number of loans per grade is much lower than HE results; however the same generalisation still applies: more loans equals higher grade achievement. Library usage for VET students, whilst important and encouraged, is not always expected as it is for HE.

Analysis Limitations

This analysis is, at its best, limited as there are a number of unknowns that cloud the data.

It must be noted that it is impossible to tell for which unit items had been borrowed. Also, students studying more than one unit during the period covered will have multiple entries in the table with the same circulation data listed for each unit.

From this data, there is no way of knowing a student's access to other materials from outside the library collections; nor does it take into account the reason for borrowing the material in the first place – research, general interest, leisure etc.

Another limitation of this analysis is there is no way of knowing if the material borrowed was actually used for assessments, or if it remained unused for the borrowing period.

Overall, this comparison is very general, but it is believed that further in-depth analysis could provide more reliable proof that library use equals higher grades.

Results

It can be seen from the analysis above that, in general, the number of loans does correspond to better grade achievement. More loans = better grades. Of course, it must be remembered that the loans themselves are not the driving force behind a better grade – it is the use of those loans, integration of and interaction with those loans in the assessments that lead to better grade achievement.

Rare Book Cataloguing: Melbourne Australasian Rare Book Summer School

Miranda Fyfield

Librarian, St Paschal Library, Order of Friars Minor

The Franciscan Order has a collection of about 800 books and manuscripts housed in the Rare Books room of St Paschal Library, Melbourne. Chief amongst these special books are two which are now held for safe-keeping at the State Library of Victoria – the Codex Sancti Paschalis (dated at about 1290) and the Conflatus in primum sententiarum / Franciscus de Mayronis (about 1450). The St Paschal Library catalogue lists most of the items in the library which appear to be rare or unusual. However there are in addition old and possibly rare items still waiting in cupboards to be assessed and catalogued. Recently I have initiated a project with Dr Anna Welch, who is a historian of the book working at the State Library of Victoria. Anna has offered to assess the St Paschal Library collection of rare books and to advise on care and maintenance of each item. We will work together and I foresee that she and I will also scrutinise and improve the descriptive cataloguing of each item.

In the light of this important library project, I applied to attend the Melbourne Australasian Rare Book Summer School. I was fortunate to be accepted into the three-day course in rare book cataloguing. In all there were twelve participants, some of whom had travelled from New Zealand and interstate to attend. The course was given by the State Library of Victoria's rare book cataloguers, librarians Richard Overell and Derrick Moors. Chief amongst the many highlights was the fact that Derrick and Richard shared with us so generously their wonderful wealth of experience and knowledge. I found it stimulating that there was also a huge amount of expertise amongst the participants. These experienced librarians work in collections specialising in many areas - for example, a privately-owned modern art gallery (MONA), a university rare books department (Melbourne University), etc. Hence there were interesting discussions around the table, with everyone contributing ideas and experience.

The course was very practical. Derrick and Richard brought with them many examples of rare books and these interesting items were passed around for our handling and inspection. What a treat! We also visited the State Library's own conservation laboratory; here again, the conservators were generous with their time and information. Their passion for their work was evident in every word. On the evening of the second day, we were able to spend over an hour visiting the newly-acquired Emerson Collection (2015, April) in the basement of the State Library. History of the Book Department Manager, Des Cowley, showed us many fascinating items from this unique and highly valuable collection of early printed books and manuscripts (even handwritten letters from England's King Charles I). On the final morning we worked in the computer laboratory, assisted by Derrick, Richard and Kate Monypenny (Digital Resources graduate working as assistant to the cataloguing course). We tested our skills by some serious cataloguing and loaded the resultant records into the National Library's collection.

cataloguer's keen eye for detail, specialist knowledge and skills..."*

It is not possible to document everything we learned in a brief review. I'll concentrate on the absolute highlights of these three days, which were named 'Introduction to rare books cataloguing', 'Learning the book' and 'Putting it all together'. Des Cowley introduced the first morning with a historical overview of the world of rare book collections. I knew that in my own librarianship studies in the mid-1960s there wasn't a 'Rare Books Collection' in the State Library. Amazing as it may now seem, books were not arranged this way in the State Library until the 1970s. Everything was in together. Then in the 1990s the State Library set up a conservation storage area; into this area went books which had been printed before 1801, or had substantial commercial value, or were known to be scarce, or had unique features (eg special bindings), or which were known to be historically important. Today this area is called 'The History of the Book Collection' and the specialist rare book librarians perform an active role, collecting for the future as well as preserving the past. In his interesting overview, Des pointed out that the current method of contributing copies to a shared catalogue (as is the National Library of Australia's Trove) leads to a downgrading of cataloguing skills: a single digitized record now stands for all copies held. Hence the essential importance of a course like this, where cataloguers can be educated into the detail of cataloguing a unique and individual item. Time and again it's the cataloguer's keen eye for detail, specialist knowledge and skills which prove to be of prime importance to academic researchers.

Des pointed out a few of the important things which are now part of a catalogue record for a rare item: provenance, ownership marks, book plates, bindings and re-bindings, binders' tickets, watermarks, owners' annotations, dust wrappers. In modern specialist productions, the book designer should be noted as creator of a contemporary rare book.

Richard gave the second session, on the technical equipment of the cataloguer's tools (Library of Congress 2011 descriptive standards; the British Library's and European libraries' procedures). He then outlined the history of the printing press from the 18th century onwards, noting changes in production methods as the hand-presses were superseded. Books printed before 1801 show many more variations because they are the result of far more manual methods. Showing several examples from the SLV's collection, Richard noted details of particular bindings, endpapers, misspellings (which add to uniqueness), the use of waste printed leaves in binding, and so on. Detailed cataloguing gives the reader and the researcher good direction. Useful clues can be found by the keen-eyed cataloguer: one example was the original dealer's note, pasted on to the binding at the front of a 1517 edition of Seneca's works. Richard showed us the State Library's equal-oldest fragment of manuscript music (from the 11th century) which, because the binder had regarded it as waste scrap, had been used in the binding of a later book.

In one of the books in St Paschal Library we can see that a piece of scrap 16th-century manuscript was used to reinforce a binding dating to the same century.

Richard and Derrick taught us the details of transcription of 17th century books. Each day a pile of old books was brought to our seminar table and we were given one of these treasures to use in our transcription exercises. Derrick enlightened us about terminology and abbreviations: what at first appeared to be algebraic formulae were revealed to us as the succinct language used when describing physical aspects of each book - paper measurements, signatures, gatherings, pagination. We learnt about watermarks and about types and sizes of paper. We learnt how to discern what size the original full sheet of paper sheet had been, before the printed book was bound. We were so fortunate to be able to spend several hours examining 17th and 18th century books in order to describe them physically, and having our efforts assessed and corrected by Derrick and Richard. A few of the books were in fact theological and of particular interest in the light of St Paschal Library's collection. Alongside the practical opportunities, Richard and Derrick made constant references to essential works of bibliography. It was most helpful that both lecturers made frequent references to particular library websites and their online catalogues, where we could see examples of descriptions of early printed books. They also provided reading lists of essential bibliographical textbooks and cataloguing tools, as well as helpful websites.

The early printed books we were shown came from the Netherlands, England, Germany, France and Italy. Many were in Latin. Abbreviations of words on the title pages were quite common. Because rare books librarians are working with manuscripts, printed books, maps and music written, printed and published before the 20th Century, facility in Latin, old German and Romance languages is extremely useful – if not indeed essential. However, it surprised me that in present-day Australia, unlike in Europe and the UK, these languages are unfortunately not widely known even by rare books librarians.

On the Thursday afternoon we were taken to the Conservation laboratory of the State Library. It was so interesting to see the stages in a conservation job, and the extreme care with which each item was treated. The chief conservator certainly shared her passion for her job as she showed us several examples of her work.

Richard gave us a fascinating Friday morning on bindings, illustrated as ever by examples from the State Library's collection. We became familiar with vellum and morocco (or turkey) leather bindings, gilt edges, Cambridge-styled panelled calf, yapp edges, fore-edge painting on vellum, blind-stamped panels, mottled calf, cat's-paw binding, tree calf, marbled boards and deckled edges. We saw what's meant by 'quarter bound' and half-bound' calf, goffering and Etruscan colours. I'm sure I was not alone in starting to appreciate the detail of these early printed books with completely new eyes.

This example of an incunabula is held in St Paschal Library and as you can see, it is a prime candidate for the conservator’s skill and care. It’s wonderful that the original binding has survived 500 years – and with the metal clasps still attached!

Here are three interesting and attractive bindings from the collection in St Paschal Library:

In the final session, Richard made the interesting point that the rare book librarian is very wise to maintain firm links with the antiquarian book trade – antiquarian booksellers and rare books librarians do indeed work hand-in-hand, to ensure the best of these early books are preserved either by collectors or by librarians. Here again, I found a resonance with the history of the Codex Sancti Paschalis: an anonymous benefactor enabled the Franciscans to acquire this precious manuscript from the dealer, Phillips. And now this rare codex is held in the State Library of Victoria. Having been through the conservation laboratory and having been given a new binding, it is now housed in the Rare Books safe, preserved in the correct environment on behalf of the Franciscan Order. This is a perfect example of cooperation for which generations will be grateful.

ANZTLA 2017 Statistics

Kerrie Stevens

ANZTLA Statistician

ANZTLA Statistics are compiled annually from data provided by ANZTLA member libraries on a voluntary basis. All ANZTLA Libraries are encouraged to contribute their data.

The reporting categories are described as follows:

- A - Provides clergy training programmes (ie: The Australian and New Zealand Association of Theological Schools [ANZATS] member schools) and/or school and training institutions which offer broad theological training (ie: Bible Colleges, Missionary Training Institutions) possibly leading to degree or post-graduate qualifications;
- B - Do not have students (ie: church administrative libraries, resource centres, para-church organisations, etc.); and
- C - Institutions offering non-theological courses in addition (ie: teacher training).

Data has been entered as submitted by the libraries. Any questions should be directed to the libraries concerned.

Of the 110 institutional members in 2017, 43 statistics questionnaires were returned (a number after the due date), equating to a 39% return rate, down from the previous year.

Thank you to all libraries who contribute to the ANZTLA Statistics!

Notes:

Figures entered as provided by responding libraries

Some figures do not calculate correctly, some libraries may have misunderstood Q5 and Q6

Q5 is the total number of hours worked in the library divided by full-time hours (37.5) to show total number of positions (add Q1, Q2, Q3 and Q4)

Q6 is the number of actual people used to fill the positions in Q5. eg: 2 people might work to fill 1 full-time position

ANZTLA SA Chapter Report 2017

Compiled by Barbara Cooper

Chapter meetings were held as follows:

1. 7 February at Adelaide Theological Library
2. 9 May at Löhe Memorial Library
3. 23 August at Tabor Library
4. 28 November at Torrens University Australia Library

It is with sadness that I report the passing of Dr Susan Newland, who died on 27 May 2017. Susan worked at the Catholic Resource and Information Service. Her attendance at our chapter meetings is greatly missed. Her sense of humour plus her insight, experience and wisdom were much appreciated.

The ANZTLA Archives were moved from Adelaide Theological Library due to the planned relocation of their library. They are now stored at the Burrow Library at Bible College SA. Katrina Dal Lago from Tabor Library took over from Wendy Davis as Archivist for ANZTLA. We thank both Wendy and Katrina for their willingness to serve the organization in this voluntary capacity. There has been some discussion between Kerrie Stevens and Katrina regarding ongoing management of the archives.

The following libraries have reported to the SA Chapter :

Adelaide Theological Library, Adelaide College of Divinity

Interviews were held for the position of Associate Librarian and Ana Grieve appointed.

There was ongoing preparation for the move to the new campus building.

The Rare Books Collection was taken to Flinders University Library for shelving in their Special Collections.

Stage 1 of relocation completed in September with books from stacks moved to the compactus.

The position held by Rosemary Hocking was made redundant and concluded in July.

Ana Grieve was appointed as Library Manager in August.

Wendy Davis returned and was contracted for 6 months basis (0.3) until February next year.

Hayley Ayers resigned, as was successful in obtaining fulltime librarian position at Torrens University. Her replacement as Chapter Secretary will be voted at the next AGM. Her hard work and dedication to the ANZTLA group is greatly valued.

Anna Witty was appointed as Librarian on a fulltime contract basis until September 2018.

Australian House of Prayer for All Nations Library, Australian House of Prayer for All Nations

A library to be situated on Kangaroo Island is under development. Items for this library are being transported gradually over there.

Burrow Library, Bible College of South Australia

Lauren Hull commenced as Assistant Librarian (4 hours per week) and is a very welcome addition to our staff, having undertaken theological training at Ridley College and having worked in the library there during her studies.

Further study space has been provided for students with the creation of a 'quiet' room, which can also be used as a meeting room. The welcome desk was repositioned and the entry to the library altered to make provision for these changes, which have been well received. Two further split system heating and cooling units were installed to the library area.

With the closure of Adelaide College of Ministries, 13 of their students chose to come to BCSA to complete their study programs this academic year.

Library policy documentation updating continued throughout the year and the remainder of the Evangelical Library donations were catalogued.

Faculty conducted some extensive weeding (around 500 books), many of which were sent overseas to a planned new theological college.

We have welcomed a new volunteer (now total of three with at 0.5).

We are trying to tidy up the journal collection in our compactuses, with better signage and spacing to facilitate access. A long term project of weeding journals and filling gaps in holdings is to be undertaken.

Löhe Memorial Library, Australian Lutheran College

Library system server upgrade was conducted in October and implementation of acquisitions module to be completed by December.

Library guides posted to the library web to promote user experience include:

- Martin Luther's writings
- Using ebooks at ALC
- Photocopy, scan and print
- Rare Books
- Classification systems

Further content is planned over next few years.

The Salisbury and Education Collections have been deleted and disposal of completely redundant items is underway to a recycling depot.

To commemorate the 500th anniversary of the Reformation, the full set of hand-coloured images from the Löhe Memorial Library's 1551 edition of the Luther Bible has been prepared as a digital resource available for study by scholars and interested Lutherans around the world.

St Barnabas Library, St Barnabas Theological

Ros Devenish is now Library Manager and no longer working as Academic Registrar, allowing her to concentrate on developing the new library.

A team of volunteers, including 4 from library backgrounds, is helping with cataloguing the donated collection.

The college suffered from storms in December 2016 and much work was required to correct water damage to walls, carpets, and fittings, affecting the library workroom and compactus area.

A library budget was developed and fundraising for salary and acquisitions commenced.

Lending commenced in Semester 2.

Tabor Library, Tabor College of Higher Education

RFID

In 2017, Tabor Library has received additional funding to implement RFID technology at the library. All the items in the main collection are now tagged and available to be borrowed via the Self-checkout kiosk. RFID tag reader allows scanning multiple items at once.

Tabor History project

There are about 200 VHS tapes in the library collection with recordings of the past Tabor conferences and seminars. As VHS is no longer in use it's been decided to digitise the tapes and make them available on DVD and MP4 formats.

UniSA Placement

Tabor Library is listed as the organisation at which students doing their TAFE or University library studies can undertake their placement. In December 2017, we had Ben Carter, a UniSA student working with us for 4 weeks. He was a great help with our Tabor history project!

Quiet Study Spaces

In order to provide a mix of spaces to best meet students' study needs, we have created a quiet study area with large individual desks separated by noise-cancelling dividers.
