

The ANZTLA E Journal

Australian and New Zealand Theological Library Association  No. 18 (2017)

This issue of the ANZTLA Ejournal presents the association statistics as provided by participating libraries with data for the year 2016. We also have a great book review and the South Australian Chapter of ANZTLA have provided reports of their activities for both 2015 and 2016. The histories of two ANZTLA member libraries have been provided by Trevor Schaefer and Siong Ng, and provide a fascinating insight into the beginnings of two great library collections. We trust you will enjoy this issue!

ANZTLA 2016 Statistics

Kerrie Stevens

ANZTLA Statistician

ANZTLA Statistics are compiled annually from data provided by ANZTLA member libraries on a voluntary basis. All ANZTLA Libraries are encouraged to contribute their data.

The reporting categories are described as follows:

- A - Provides clergy training programmes (ie: The Australian and New Zealand Association of Theological Schools [ANZATS] member schools) and/or school and training institutions which offer broad theological training (ie: Bible Colleges, Missionary Training Institutions) possibly leading to degree or post-graduate qualifications;
- B - Do not have students (ie: church administrative libraries, resource centres, para-church organisations, etc.); and
- C - Institutions offering non-theological courses in addition (ie: teacher training).

Data has been entered as submitted by the libraries. Any questions should be directed to the libraries concerned.

Thank you to all libraries who contribute to the ANZTLA Statistics

Notes:

Figures entered as provided by responding libraries

Some figures do not calculate correctly, some libraries may have misunderstood Q5 and Q6

Q5 is the total number of hours worked in the library divided by full-time hours (37.5) to show total number of positions (add Q1, Q2, Q3 and Q4)

Q6 is the number of actual people used to fill the positions in Q5. eg: 2 people might share 1 full-time position

The History of the Carey Baptist College

Siong Ngor Ng

2016 commemorates the 90th year anniversary of Carey Baptist College in Auckland, New Zealand. This article looks at the brief history of the library.

The intention to have the library started in 1924. It was recorded in the New Zealand Baptist (NZB), December 1924 p.274, that J.J. North wanted at once to begin the formation of the college library. He states that he would like to begin to lay hands on necessary books, and would be grateful to those who would help him. It was amazing to note that the formation of the library was viewed as crucial as it was discussed and acted upon way before the college was officially established. Budget, the word that most of us are familiar with, was mentioned in NZB, June 1925, p.145. It is stated that a donation of £5 had been received for the purchase of books and in total over £7 had been received. It was also noted that he was authorised to secure a sum of £20. A few months later, in September 1925, it was reported that Mr. E.R. James, of Auckland, had arranged for a set of Anti-Nicene Christian Writers to be placed on the shelves of the library (*NZB*1925, p. 227). Two months later in November, it was stated that the principal was busy collecting books for the library and it was viewed necessary to have as complete a theological and historical resource as possible (NZB November 1925, p.282). It was also noted that J.J. North's own personal library was made available for college use. Some of the books that belonged to him are still currently in the library.

The library was housed at Mt Hobson in a lecture room in the basement. (Fig.1)

With donations and loans from various people, the collection size slowly increased. Bob Thomson, who was in his first year at the college and who later became the Principal, expressed his concerns about the library to E.M. Blaiklock. He stated that “the college library to my mind is deficient in solid conservative literature but Mr. Blaiklock is trying to remedy that”¹. Books were issued manually to staff and students. The circulation process was recorded in a book. (Fig.2)

In July 1949, Roy Bullen, a student at the college, wrote a letter to the General Secretary of the Baptist Union. He suggested that the union establish a museum in order to preserve the Baptist heritage². The following year the historical society was established and Bullen was appointed as the curator for the archive. It was noted in the NZB, September 1951, p.235, that Bullen was actively seeking suitable resources of historical value to be added into the archive. John Maxwell Barker later took on the curator position from 1955-1986. To honour his memory, the archive was later named after him³.

In 1954, the college moved to 63 Victoria Avenue, Remuera⁴. The large house and about four acres were purchased for £18,500⁵. The library, two lecture rooms, offices and dining room were on the ground floor⁶. When J. Ayson Clifford became the Principal in 1961, he catalogued the books with the help of some students. The large room was later inadequate for the number of volumes and the insufficient shelves and area for the students to study was a concern⁷. For a number of years there had been a discussion about the new library facility. A growing collection of books meant that the stacks were encroaching on the teaching space⁸. New shelving could only go so far to alleviate the pressure as they were expecting a collection from E.P.Y. Simpson to arrive⁹. A deadline of 1970 was agreed for a new purpose-built library to be constructed¹⁰. Unfortunately it took another 6 years before the new library building was opened as a stand-alone building. In March 1976, the new library building was dedicated as part of the Jubilee celebrations. The library was situated on the “northern side of Hobson House and joined to it at the level of its ground floor by a covered way”¹¹. The library included a mezzanine floor for additional stacks and a full basement for storage. It was planned to store up to 30,000 volumes of resources which was ambitious as the stock in 1974 was only 13,000. However, the management team projected that the collection would double every seventeen years¹². In honour of Ayson Clifford's contribution, the library was named after him on his retirement.

Like most libraries during that period, a card catalogue was used to list information about the resources held in the library. Brian and Shirley Smith, along with some students, transferred the information from the card catalogue to the library database in 1989.

The library moved again when the college purchased the current site. However, the library resources were inside containers and not accessible for 5 months as the development and renovation were happening. The college officially re-opened on 19 June 1994¹³. Brian Smith, the Principal at that time, recognised the value of the archive. He believed that it should be part of the new library and space was allocated for it¹⁴. Since his retirement, Brian has remained involved in the college community life. He started scanning the NZB from its beginning in 1876. It is now available digitally and is often used by researchers and students. That process started in 2004 and was completed in 2011.

Other than maintaining the physical collection, Lesley Utting, the librarian at that time, oversaw the implementation of the library resources to be added to the National Library's Catalogue (Te Puna) in 1997. At that same time, the college also joined the national interloan scheme that allows borrowing and loaning of resources to other libraries¹⁵. Strong relationships and networks were formed among the theological librarians as the college library was a member of the Australia and New Zealand Theological Library Association (ANZTLA).

In 2001, an online catalogue accessible remotely and onsite was implemented. New updates and new versions of the online catalogue happen on a regular basis. Ebooks were first introduced in 2009. Three titles were purchased initially. Students, especially distance students, appreciated the ability to access eBooks remotely. By 2016, the eBooks collection has grown to 358 titles. On top of that, the library also subscribes to eBook Religion database which consists of 6,700 titles. Another major improvement is the single platform for library users to search the library resources. Discovery, a web-based-system that allows users to search multiple databases, journal articles and the library catalogue, was implemented in 2015. For the first time, authentication software was also implemented during that time. It enables secure access to online resources for the staff and students.

In 2016 and 2017, the study areas on the mezzanine floor were redeveloped. New desks, chairs, carpet, and paint were added making it look spacious and inviting. Portable furniture such as stand-up desk and modular furniture make it possible to have flexible group spaces. Students are now able to configure their own space for collaborative work.

You can tell a lot about a man from his library: the Löhe Collection

Trevor Schaefer

The Australian Lutheran College trains pastors for the Lutheran Church and teachers for Lutheran schools. Löhe Memorial Library serves the students and teaching staff of this institution. It is named after Pastor Johannes Paul Löhe (1869-1952), who was a principal of Immanuel Seminary at North Adelaide, a predecessor of ALC. Paul Löhe was the grand-nephew of Wilhelm Löhe (1808-1872), who founded the Mission house in Neuendettelsau in Germany, which supplied many pastors to Australia in the nineteenth century. J.P. Löhe came to Australia as a twenty-year old pastor and was later appointed President-General of one of the two synods which formed the LCA.¹

I have just spent the long break between semesters at ALC moving all the books in the Löhe Collection from the compactus to ‘the shed’. These books were hard to find, because most of the shelves in the compactus were double-shelved. They are now clearly on display in wooden shelves, under fluorescent lighting in a newly cleaned and fresh smelling extension of the library.

The Löhe Collection consists of many theological tomes and the fruits of a lifetime of book collecting. It includes, as expected, many volumes of theology and philosophy, more in English than in German.² The textbook that he appears to have used as a theological student, is Dogmatik: Akademische Vorlesungen [Dogmatics: Academic Lectures] by August F.C. Vilmar, which has his signature in the front endpaper, with the date, 1888. It has blue and red pencil underlinings throughout, and marginal notes in German and Greek. There is a letter pasted inside next to the title page. The letter, dated 24/06/1929, is from fellow Pastor J.J. Stolz, and refers to Vilmar, who died in 1868, as a great prophet of the Lutheran Church.

There are a Hebrew Bible and a Greek New Testament from his student days, and a healthy collection of biblical commentaries and studies, with thirteen on the Psalms and a dozen on Revelation. He was also a keen follower of the first quest for the historical Jesus, for he has a first English edition of Albert Schweitzer's The Quest of the Historical Jesus, 1910, and the Hibbert Journal Supplement of 1909, titled "Jesus or Christ?" Both these volumes show evidence of close reading, with many underlinings and copious marginal notes.

The collection contains Unser Bismarck, c.1900, a remembrance book with copious hand drawn illustrations. Count Otto von Bismarck was the Chancellor of Prussia when J.P. Löhe was born, soon to become chancellor of a united Germany. Löhe grew up in a new and confident, even arrogant, young country, only in later life to see that country defeated and humiliated and divided again. Amongst his collection is Der Fuehrer, a book in two volumes by Konrad Heiden, published in 1944. In his preface Heiden writes,

It is twenty-three years since I first attended a National Socialist meeting, saw (without particular enjoyment) Herr Hitler at close range, and listened to the flood of nonsense-or so it seemed to me at the time-that he was spouting. It was only gradually that the effects of these speeches made me realize that behind all the nonsense there was unrivalled political cunning.

Löhe took a real interest in current affairs, and some books have a collection of newspaper cuttings pasted inside the front and back covers, and underlined with his characteristic blue and red pencils:

Graham, Stephen 1915. Russia and the World: a study of the war.

Keynes, John Maynard 1920. The Economic consequences of the Peace.

MacDonald, J. Ramsay 1910. The Awakening of India.

These newspaper cuttings make fascinating reading: the news of a century ago. There are some sobering books as well: The Great Illusion, in which Norman Angell argues in 1912, just before the Great War, the economic and social case against modern warfare.

In Journey through the War Mind, published a quarter century later (in May 1940, as Germany invaded France) C.E.M. Joad, an English philosopher, analyses the hatred and evil that war brings in its wake.

There are very few Australian books in the collection, but one notable exception is An Apostle in Australia: the life and reminiscences of Joseph Coles Kirby, Christian pioneer and reformer, by Edward Kiek (1927). Joseph Kirby was the Congregational minister at Port Adelaide for 28 years until 1908, and his main claim to fame was championing the legislation which brought six o'clock closing of all pubs and hotel bars to South Australia in 1915. Kiek, who taught at Parkin College in Adelaide, was the husband of Winifred Kiek, the first woman ordained to the ministry in any church in Australia in 1926.

There are substantial collections of the works of the early church fathers. There is, surprisingly, no edition of Luther's works, although there may have been one that went into the collection earlier, for the benefit of students. There is a set of Calvin's New Testament works. However, his interests extended well beyond biblical studies and reformation history, and the collection includes a large selection of English church biographies from the Victorian era. These extend from Lord Acton to Charles Wordsworth, Bishop of St. Andrews, Dunkeld and Dunblane. He also collected many books of the sermons of these English 'divines'. To complement the solid collection of English 'divines' is a pair of Victorian sceptics: the Scottish Germanophile Thomas Carlyle and the English art and social critic John Ruskin, who are represented by nearly complete sets of their works.

Another favourite author is Cardinal John Henry Newman: 8 out of 35 titles on the catalogue. Again, there is a newspaper cutting inside one of these books: Apologia Pro Vita Sua: being a history of his religious opinions. The edition Löhe holds is from 1888, but the cutting (from 1913) is advertising a reprint of the original edition from 1864. Newman is the man who left the Church of England in 1845 for the Roman Catholic Church. The newspaper article refers to a rumour in 1862 that he was considering a return. His savage response:

"I do hereby profess ex animo, with an absolute internal consent, that Protestantism is the dreariest of possible religions; that the thought of the Anglican service makes me shiver, and the thought of the Thirty-nine Articles makes me shudder."

Löhe's favourite Victorian ecclesiastical author appears to be Frederick Denison Maurice, who is represented by over twenty books. He has a well-marked copy of his Theological Essays, first published in 1853. This is the book, addressed to Unitarians, which cost Maurice his professorship of theology at King's College, London, when he argued against a belief in eternal punishment after death. Towards the end of the book (p.411), Löhe has thickly underlined the sentence, "eternal life is the knowledge of God and eternal death is Atheism, the being without him."

There is a biography of the extraordinary Methodist preacher, William Booth, who founded the Salvation Army with his wife Catherine Booth. There is also a two volume biography of Catherine. Even more interesting are the books they wrote themselves: Papers on Aggressive Christianity (1891) by Mrs. Booth, and In Darkest England and the Way Out (1890), by General Booth, complete with a coloured chart showing the Salvation Army's way out from destitution, despair and death: "Work for all".

Most interesting for this reader are the comprehensive collection of the works of Friedrich Max Müller, who was a leading scholar of the study of religion in the nineteenth century, and the first translator of the Rig Veda into English. Although he was born in Germany, most of his working life he spent in England, and all these works are accessible in English. One has the title, India: What can it teach us? This is a course of lectures delivered at the University of Cambridge in 1892. One thing has been highlighted here (p.64):

We are all very apt to consider truth to be what is trowed by others, or believed in by large majorities. That kind of truth is easy to accept. But whoever has once stood alone, surrounded by noisy assertions, and overwhelmed by clamour of those who ought to know better - he knows what a delight it is to feel in his heart of hearts, this is true - this is sat (Sanskrit) – whatever daily, weekly, or quarterly papers, whatever bishops, archbishops, or popes, may say to the contrary.

The collection of philosophy includes the classical philosophers, eg. an Oxford edition of the works of Aristotle edited by Immanuel Bekker, dated 1837, in eleven volumes, with text in Greek and apparatus in Latin, a real scholar's edition. However, he did not collect the works of any of the German philosophers. There are only bits and pieces: an idiosyncratic biography of Nietzsche by Anthony Ludovici and Nietzsche's Madness and the correspondence with Wagner. There is little of Hegel here, and that little includes, Hegel's Charlatanism Exposed, by M. Kelly. The English philosophers are all represented, from Hobbes and Locke to Hume and Mill, father and son. His sympathies appeared to lie with the clarity and pragmatism of English philosophy.

There are some real oddities as well: Modern Babylon's Downfall Followed by the Triumphant Millennium After Armageddon, Now Fast Approaching Which is Proved by the Death of the Late Emperor of Germany, by Th. Polack and published in Adelaide in 1888. In this book, the author proves to his own satisfaction that the British Empire is the Babylon referred to in the book of Revelation.

One notable inclusion is a complete set of the Works of Jacob Boehme 1575-1624, a German mystic who obviously had a profound effect on Pastor Löhe. In one of these books, The Threefold Life of Man, I found a copy of a letter he wrote on 3rd August 1920, to a man who had advertised in the Melbourne Argus for a set of Boehme's works. He says, "Boehme is a gold-mine of Divine Wisdom, but hard work it is to get at the precious metal. I myself am but a poor disciple of his." He laments that he possesses only two of his works, and signs himself "in the fellowship of the master's Master". It is pleasing to note the inscription in the first volume of the collected works: "Dem lieben Vater, J. P. Loeh, von Hedwig & Max Loeh." [To our beloved Father, from Hedwig & Max Loeh]. Dated 1936, this shows that two of his children knew of their father's desire and satisfied it.

Finally, there is a most unexpected inclusion, Rabindranath Tagore 1861-1941, the first Nobel Laureate for Literature from India. The collection contains Gitanjali = Song offerings: a collection of prose translations made by the author from the original Bengali, published in 1913 in London and Tagore's My Reminiscences. In The Awakening of India, mentioned above, was a hand-written copy, by the owner, of a poem written by Tagore in Bengali on the last day of the nineteenth century. It was published in the book Nationalism in 1918.

The Sunset of the Century

The last sun of the century sets amidst the blood-red clouds of the West and the whirlwind of hatred the naked passion of self-love of nations in its drunken delirium of greed, its dancing to the clash of steel and the howling verses of vengeance.

So what have I learned about the man from his library? He may have been less conventional in his theology than his positions of seminary principal and church president would suggest. He had a genuine interest in the wider world outside the institutions in which he served. I think he felt more comfortable in his adopted language of English than in his native German. This reflects the fact that he spent much longer in Australia than he did in Germany, and two world wars made his native tongue a despised one of ‘enemy aliens’. And he was a bibliophile who really loved rummaging amongst second-hand books to pick up a bargain.

News from the ANZTLA SA Chapter:

ANZTLA SA welcomed Ros Devenish who has been appointed the new Academic Administrator/Library Project Manager for St. Barnabas Theological College. Ros was the Senior Librarian at Melbourne School of Theology and has moved to Adelaide with her husband, Dr Stuart Devenish, who is Coordinator of Postgraduate Studies for the School of Ministry, Theology & Culture, and Tabor Adelaide. Ros will be working fulltime at the College, because in addition to student admissions, Ros will also be overseeing the establishment of the new library.

Background of the new St Barnabas Library:

The donation of nearly 90,000 books from a private collection of Clive Rodger, most likely the largest private contemporary theology library in Australia. This collection includes nearly every book published in English, in the areas of significant Anglican theological work, Christianity, political, philosophy, economics, sociology, biblical studies, theology, and mission over the past 30 years. The gift of this collection to our college is recognition of its remarkable development over the past few years.

Ros Devenish gave ANZTLA SA a tour of the new St Barnabas Theological College and the library.

ANZTLA SA welcomed Shaun Lancaster who is the new senior librarian appointed for Löhe Memorial Library. Shaun's most recent experience is as the manager of libraries for the Gold Coast Institute of TAFE, but his overall employment history in libraries extends back to 1995. Shaun's background is in Library administration and ICT, and he has previously worked as the manager of a theological library network (NZ), ICT Coordinator (Adelaide University), and Manager Libraries, TAFE Queensland Gold Coast. Part of Shaun's brief will be to explore and implement new, technology based, ways of making our library accessible to larger groups of people.

ANZTLA Conference Auckland, New Zealand:

Hayley Evers, Oksana Feklistova, Ros Devenish, Shaun Lancaster and Wendy Davis attended the ANZTLA Conference 15 – 18 July in Auckland, New Zealand.

Hayley Evers did a 7 minute lighting presentation titled 'Reusing books as works of art' at the ANZTLA conference. It was well received and inspired others to show their creations on the ANZTLA email forum.

ANZTLA Board positions:

Kerrie Stevens took over the position of National Secretary from Wendy Davis at the ANZTLA conference. Wendy had held this position from 2007 to 2015 (with a short break in between).

Evangelical Library Closed:

The Evangelical Library closed at the end of December 2015. The library was a member of Australian Church Library Association. They were on the location of the Bible College of South Australia in Malvern, South Australia.

The collection consisted of some 15,700 items, including 13,300 books and 2,400 multi media. They believed they had possibility the largest collection in Australia of Christian fiction over 1,900 items. They were an independent library with no group or organisation sponsoring them. They did rely on an annual subscription or donations.

The collection has been dispersed by other members of the Australian Church Library Association taking what they needed for their church libraries. The rest of the collection went to Burrow Library, Bible College of South Australia.

Library Reports

Adelaide Theological Library, Adelaide College of Divinity

We would like to acknowledge the significant assistance provided to the ATL by our willing and dedicated volunteers, Dr David Hilliard, Joy Belling and Bruce Rosier. They provide assistance in re-shelving, serials receipt, working with the rare books collection, processing, database maintenance, ARI indexing, shelf-checking in the stacks and helping with book sales. We would also like to congratulate David on the award of an OAM on Australia Day for his significant contribution to the study of religious history.

We have replaced the two student photocopiers with a single new copier, which offers more features than the old copiers eg. double-sided, colour, A3, top feed, and free scanning to email. We are also able to use web-based authentication software rather than the BEAR card system for payment.

Wendy is to be congratulated on the award of an ANZTLA Honorary Life Membership, and Hayley's presentation on the creative use of old books was very well received.

Wendy and Hayley provided small "pop-up" libraries of relevant books, together with information brochures, registration forms and second-hand books for sale, for two intensive topics. These were very useful in providing easy access to additional materials for the students, and in promoting the library, particularly as one of the courses was being held off-campus.

Congratulations to Wendy for arranging, and Hayley for assisting with, the first "Living Libraries" session on "The art of pastoral care". Fifteen people listened to three students talking about their artwork; one of the visitors was a chaplain from an aged care facility who brought additional artworks to add to the discussion.

Rosemary Hocking

Burrow Library, Bible College of South Australia

The main foci of student enquiries remain journals and remote server access, particularly amongst part-time students, who might forget passwords, search pathways etc. Therefore orientation is a constant consideration for me in terms of how it may be improved. My experience here has been that students will come and ask when they need/want to and this is usually related to due dates for assignments coming up. At present it is possible for me to assist students on a one-to-one basis as usually it is only a handful of students who seek help. My main concern is that students may not realize the full extent of resources available to them. Further thinking through this area of my role is ongoing.

We are always grateful to the volunteers who offer their time to the college and in the library in particular it is helpful to have assistance with the number of donated books we receive. We were sorry to lose a couple of volunteers this year but glad that they were able to re-enter the work force after having time at home with young families. We have a new volunteer who started a couple of months ago and is gaining confidence using our Liberty database.

Over the summer break it is likely that there will be changes to allocations of space within the library. This will be driven by administrative decisions rather than library needs. At present I am hoping that a stock take and some weeding of resources will take place and I will be better placed to think through forthcoming alterations.

Shaun, the new senior librarian, commenced work in this new role at ALC on Monday, 2 March. Shaun's most recent experience is as the manager of libraries for the Gold Coast Institute of TAFE, but his overall employment history in libraries extends back to 1995.

An exciting new, innovative learning space has been built at the library. The new 24/7 learning space consist of a large area for group collaboration work, new set of computers and a big flat screen (on wheels) screening promotions, events and new items. This new learning space is available 24/7 under certain conditions which preserve the security of our collections. Students need to sign up to have an access card which will be used to gain access into the 24/7 area. CCTV and a fire door have also been installed in this new area. Installation also included of a new 3M security gate at the new entrance to the 24/7 area, the fixing of salt damp damage to walls (discovered behind books in the Reference section), painting and carpeting of some areas, the implementation of additional electrical points to assist laptop users, the implementation of an OPAC upstairs, the relocation of the audio visual collections to the old service area of the library, and the reflowing of some parts of the collection into shelving left vacant in the old service area.

Some rationalisation of physical collections has taken place, and a review of digital assets in anticipation of envisaged duplications of assets to be hosted on the University of Divinity Hub, which is due to become operational early in 2016.

Ros Devenish commenced work with St Barnabas Theological College on March 9, 2015. She has a paid position as the Academic Administrator 3 days a week and is the volunteer librarian 2 days per week although the two positions merge in and out of each other every day.

2015 has seen the college return to its original home at 18 King William Street in North Adelaide. It shares the building with the Anglican Diocesan Office. Anglicare has moved out and this has enabled space to be opened out to incorporate a new library.

It is Ros' task to turn more than 1,800 boxes of books into a library. This is a huge task, as there is no listing of what the boxes contain (we have very broad idea) but will need to think carefully about what specialisations the library will hold and how we want to move forward into the future. It is one thing to turn boxes of books into a library but an altogether bigger task to see the library become a living and growing part of a vibrant college community as well as making a positive contribution to the wider community and indeed a welcoming place for researchers from around the world.

A 30,000 volume compactus has been installed and we have chosen to use Liberty as our LMS and configuration etc. The librarian's split role demanding and tiring, so Ros is trying to put some extra self-care strategies into action!

Tabor Adelaide Library, Tabor Adelaide

On 22 June 2015, the Tabor Adelaide Library Catalogue was moved to Alma, a new cloud-based library management system. This move is a planned upgrade, part of the big change started last year when we introduced Primo. This change will improve the efficiency of library processes and affect all the behind the scenes activities in the library, including circulation, cataloguing, acquisitions and electronic materials management.

Lisa Daley has been appointed as a part-time Library Assistant and now works at the Circulation Desk two days a week.

Tabor Adelaide merged with Tabor Perth, in July 2015. Tabor Perth students are treated as Tabor Adelaide external students, ie. gaining access to the library's electronic resources and document delivery services. A borrowing agreement with the Murdoch University Library has been arranged.

In addition to our Adelaide campus, Tabor now has two new campuses, in Perth and Geelong. The Adelaide campus library will provide services and to students and staff of all campuses. In Perth and Geelong campuses, a limited number of high demand materials including current course textbooks will be held in close reserve.

News from the ANZTLA SA Chapter:

Due to the common experience of budget cuts for several of our libraries, we have had discussions regarding the possibility of purchasing and/or sharing common resources. As each library has different sources of funding, it is perhaps more practical to consider reciprocal borrowing and interlibrary loans without fees across all our libraries. To date, no agreement has been formalized, as there are pros and cons such as librarians being required to pick up and return resources, and lending libraries being left short of resources for their own students. There has also been a suggestion to investigate at least one library having a continued run of common periodical titles. There may be licensing issues with this idea.

Wendy Davis retired as ANZTLA Archivist at the end of 2016 and the ANZTLA Archives are to be rehoused due to the refurbishment of the Adelaide Theological Library at Brooklyn Park campus.

Katrina Dal Lago from Tabor Library will be the new ANZTLA Archivist. Barbara Cooper at Burrow Library will house the ANZTLA Archives in her library from early in 2017.

Adelaide Theological Library can no longer accept donations after Friday 16th December due to the pending refurbishment/redevelopment of the campus in 2017/2018. This will involve moving and downsizing the present library collection. The following is a list of libraries that currently are still able to accept donations of theological material:

Presently the Lutheran College Library (Löhe Memorial) will accept books as will the Oxfam Bookshop on Hutt Street.

St Barnabas College Library is happy to take anything of an Anglican nature, written by or about Anglicans and also on Anglican Church History in Australia.

Wendy Davis retired from Adelaide Theological Library on 16th December 2016. Hayley and Rosemary are sad to see her go and will miss her experience, knowledge, skills and personal contributions to the ATL team since she began with the combined library in 1997. Wendy has been part of the theological library scene in Adelaide since 1981 when she began work at Lohe Memorial Library, Australian Lutheran College. She has worked with Adelaide College of Divinity Libraries since 1984—firstly at St. Barnabas College and from 1993, at St Francis Xavier Seminary Library as well. In October 1997, she became Associate Librarian at the new Adelaide Theological Library. Wendy is a long time ANZTLA member, past President, past Secretary (for two terms), current Archivist, Chair of the organising committee for the 2013 Adelaide Conference, and ARI indexer. When Val Canty was ANZTLA newsletter editor, Wendy was her unofficial assistant and proof reader. Wendy was awarded an Honorary Life Membership in 2015 for her extensive contributions to ANZTLA over many years. We wish Wendy and her husband, Mark, every blessing and happiness in their retirement, which promises to be very busy with travel and spending time with their two grandsons. Barbara Cooper presented Wendy with a bunch of flowers and a certificate of appreciation at the ANZTLA SA meeting in November 2016.

Hayley Evers (Adelaide Theological Library), Helen Gorzkowski (Tabor Library), Rosemary Hocking (Adelaide Theological Library) and Trevor Schaefer (Löhe Memorial Library) attended the ANZTLA Conference 29 June – 2 July in Canberra.

Trevor Schaefer did a lighting talk presentation titled ‘1551 Lutheran Bible: Wood cut illustrations illuminated’.

Library Reports

Adelaide College of Ministries Library

Adelaide College of Ministries is closing at the end of the year. As part of early discussions between ACM and Bible College SA, BCSA will be welcoming to our ongoing students and some faculty.

Decisions are unlikely to be made before sometime during the next year. In the meantime, we will be closing our membership with ANZTLA and winding up any other subscriptions. Thank you so much for your advice and support since I started engaging with ANZTLA in 2011. Your encouragement has been invaluable as our tiny College has aimed to keep up with the big guns in this field. It is a sad time for us all, but I am grateful for ANZTLA broadly and for the SA Branch. Your encouragement at conferences and through this forum has been invaluable as our College has aimed to keep up with larger institutions in this field.

The ACD has updated their website, and continues to host the Library page. Wendy took this opportunity to update many embedded links as the URLs all changed and improve our web page information. The ATL now has a Facebook page, which includes forthcoming events, library news, and items of general interest.

The Uniting Church (SA) is now the owner of the ACD campus. Plans are being developed to “refurbish” the site, which will involve moving the ATL as well as all other parts of the existing campus to re-developed buildings with a smaller total footprint, but on the same site. Library staff and volunteers were invited to a meeting at which the first draft concept plans for the re-development of the campus were presented. The current plans do not allow sufficient space for the existing library collections, so we are already investigating options eg. compactus storage for older materials, and whether we will have space to house our rare books collection. Library staff have continued to meet with the architects to refine plans for library space in the refurbished ACD campus. We will need to reduce our catalogued collection by 25%, so we have started weeding duplicates of non-core texts from the main collection, and will be disposing of all uncatalogued items in the stacks collection. We will no longer have space to store the rare books collection.

We have noticed a significant reduction in the number of student visits, borrowing totals, and photocopier use. A major contributor to this is be the increased use of the Moodle-based learning software, ACD Online, to support the topics being taught; and we are promoting the use of our electronic journals, research databases and ebooks, which are particularly useful for our distance students.

We were very pleased with the response to the display of artworks by Yvonne Ashby, the ACD Artist-in-Residence. And Yvonne's mural has definitely brightened up the library entrance. We hosted a Living Libraries lunchtime presentations for South Pacific School Aid and Kairos Prison Ministry during the year.

Wendy retired as of 16th December. We will be very sad to see her go, and will miss her experience, knowledge, skills and personal contributions to the ATL team since she began with the combined library in 1997.

Rosemary Hocking

Australian House of Prayer For All Nations

Continuing to put aside books tapes etc. to send to a contact in PNG. Until the end of the year I will be down one volunteer who is going to the UK with her husband till the end of December. She is my right hand 'man' so to speak looking after the journals/newsletters of which we have many. She tried to bring the holdings on 'AULOTS' up to date but ran out of time before she had to fly out. The other volunteers are learning new skills and will be able to cover her position ably, but we will still miss her.

We are still waiting for new premises to house everything on one (much bigger) site. We are about to send one or two pallets to PNG of books, audio tapes and videotapes. A volunteer from Adelaide has moved to Kingscote, Kangaroo Island and has begun spending time in the House of Prayer Library room over there in the Kingsgate Haven Motel. Currently we have sent 128 items to that site.

Pauline Redman

Burrow Library

The cataloguing of resources donated by the Evangelical Library has commenced and will probably take several months to complete. Accession of these books also requires some reconfiguring of shelf space.

Our college newsletter has brought two new volunteers to the library, who have been able to sort through donations and who, I hope, may be able to learn simple cataloguing in time.

A current project is to review and essentially rewrite our library policy documents as they are very out-of-date. The Australian College of Theology Library Policy document suggests guidelines and standards, which are forming the basis of this work. The ACT Annual Survey requires library performance metrics, which in turn need a mission statement/strategic plan as well as collection development policy. I have been creating and updating some of the library policy documents as part of our performance metrics process. This has been a useful review of the way the library runs and hopefully will help determine planning and direction for next year and beyond.

We have a new library volunteer who comes generally once a week with her aunt, who supervises her, and she is gradually learning how to work within our Liberty catalogue.

A student survey has been performed, which has gathered useful feedback regarding the performance of the library in meeting their needs. Some trends in responses have emerged that will hopefully be addressed with orientation of students as the new academic year commences. The main issue is to ensure that all students receive the information they need. I am thinking of compiling a checklist that students need to sign to confirm they have eg. been shown around the library; know how to access online journals; Endnote, etc.

We are in the process of seeking a library assistant who is familiar with Liberty and can help with the cataloguing of donated books. This is a paid position for 4 hours per week. We have had a new volunteer who has been able to help sort through donated books and also enter contents into our catalogue.

A stock take is planned for the end of this semester.

Catholic Resource and Information Service

A review of CRIS has been ongoing for almost 2 years and the report has now been finalised. At this stage we are waiting to see what recommendations the review has outlined.

Staffing has been cut to one full time librarian and now a half time library assistant. This has meant that the service is now closed to the public on Thursday afternoons and Fridays. Mary McCormack, the previous library assistant, retired as of April this year and has been replaced by Sarah Pietsch who works Monday afternoon, Tuesdays and Wednesdays. Sarah has previously worked in different departments at Catholic Education and has had experience in school libraries in Canada.

There is an increased demand on CRIS service from schools and parishes but difficulty with supplying the same service with less staff and a decrease in budget.

We were fortunate to have a 4th Year TAFE Library Studies student, Vicky Hammond, to complete a placement with us of 70 hours volunteer work.

Susan Newland

Löhe Memorial Library

The Acquisitions and Liaison Librarian, Pam Zweck Silcock retired at the end of January 2017. The recruitment process for a replacement went ahead before the end of 2016. A new librarian was appointed, Sara Altmann, and she commenced in January 2017.

In July, two library staff members attended conferences. Trevor attended the annual ANZTLA Conference in Canberra, and Pam attended the Luther Conference in Melbourne. The Löhe Library and ALC were promoted at both conferences, through the showcasing of the recently compiled “Luther Bible 1551”, a compilation of selected illustrations from the original Bible, with theological commentary to each illustration.

The Senior Librarian attended a UD Library and Academic Resources Committee (LARC) meeting in Melbourne. The main issues of note were:

- Plans to develop a common user card for all UD library members, across the network of libraries. This dovetails well with our own plans in this area.
- Guidelines for deselection across the libraries. It was agreed that while there are principles that apply to all of the libraries in general, there will be local circumstances which need to be taken into account.
- Plans to develop a working party to review items added to the UD Hub, in consultation with faculty, so that digital collections closely align with the needs of the University teaching programme.

The Senior Librarian met with the Senior Teaching Staff in August to review resources added to the catalogue by department. It was agreed that there will be regular faculty reviews of collections in relation to teaching needs, and a review by department heads was conducted in December.

The library staff have rationalised the print collections, and relocated seldom used books, mostly in old German script (approximately 4000 items), to areas of the shed vacated by uncatalogued and unused serials. This has enabled significant weeding in the main collection, and removed the double shelving in the compactus.

The Senior Librarian worked with the Web Administrator and ICT to effect some improvements to the web infrastructure. This has resulted in the establishment of a secure landing page for ALC held digital resources, requiring a single login, instead of the multiple types of logins as was the case previously. The UD Hub continues to be the first stop for students searching for online resources.

The Library Management System is currently running on a Server 2003 using Internet Information Services (IIS) version 6, neither of which are still supported by Microsoft. Sirsi Dynix, the library system software provider, have informed us that the next upgrade of the software is imminent, and will be unable to run on our current server environment. The LMS will be migrated to Server 2012, and a cloud (SAAS) hosted option in April/May 2017.

St Barnabas Library

We have made good progress in the library despite the time pressure. I have a good team of volunteers. 4 men who are work on average about 5 hours each per week unpacking and sorting books from the boxes and Fiona, a retired librarian who comes each Wednesday and catalogues for me.

As of January 1 2017 I will be Tuesday – Friday, Library Manager (paid) and no more Academic Administrator. This is a fully funded position and after nearly 2 years of the split role I am very glad that it's coming to an end. Damian Szepessy has been appointed Academic Administrator 3 days per week and Ros is in the middle of training with him.

In September, the College re-branded itself and is now St Barnabas College, no apostrophe and no 'theological' in the name. Colours etc. have all changed and there is a new look website etc. There is work to be done on the introductory library page as it was put together by someone else and needs attention!

There is a good team of volunteers coming together and the main aim of 2017 is to catalogue and catalogue and catalogue! There is much 'second and third level sorting' to be done with my main task over the summer to write up, more fully, a Collection Development Policy.

We currently have just over 2,000 books in the catalogue with a goal of 15,000 by the end of 2017. We also hope to commence lending (St Barnabas students and staff only to begin with) by the middle of 2017.

One of the good things for me about 2017 will be the fact that attending ANZTLA meetings will become a whole lot easier and I look forward to the shared time together.

Library staff have undertaken another weeding project. The aim is to create more study spaces for students, in particular quiet study space. We have done this by deleting duplicate copies, old editions of text books, moving a lot of books to stacks.

Oksana attended the OCLC Libraries at the Crossroads Conference in Hong Kong. The conference was held on the 1-2 December and a Lightning Talk video submitted by Oksana was shortlisted and screened at the Conference. The theme of the video had to relate to young people and how your library kept them engaged in terms of technology, changing the library space or how they are encouraged to come into your library either physically or virtually.

Tabor College looking at opportunities to form alliances with other colleges. Currently, Tabor College in Adelaide has combined with Tabor College Perth, so that Tabor College Perth falls under the banner of Tabor College. There are also Teaching Centres in Geelong and Midland (WA) that are now part of Tabor. The library in Perth (Forrestville) will remain open and there is a part-time staff member in the library. Since the amalgamation, we have been busy changing some of our policies and procedures as they are no longer appropriate now that we also have interstate campuses.

The Jesus Scandals by David Instone-Brewer (2012)

Trevor Schaefer

Instone-Brewer, David. The Jesus Scandals: Why He Shocked His Contemporaries (and Still Shocks Today). Oxford: Monarch Books, 2012.

This little book of 191 pages is subtitled, Why he shocked his contemporaries (and still shocks today). “Why look for scandals?” he asks. His answer:

Scandals are our best guarantee of historical truth in the Gospels. When disgraceful, embarrassing and shocking details about Jesus are recorded by his friends and supporters, it is much harder to disbelieve them.¹

The book is divided into three sections: scandals in Jesus’ life; scandals among Jesus’ friends; and scandals in Jesus’ teaching. The first section opens with a chapter on his illegitimate birth. The author emphasises that being called the “son of Mary” was insulting to Jesus because a Jewish male would normally be named as the son of his father. This label was a way of saying no-one knew who his father was: Joseph denied he was the father. Moreover, everyone in Nazareth knew that Jesus was born less than nine months after his parent’s wedding. This approach makes for fresh readings of the gospels, as when Jesus speaking in the temple in John 8 is subject to the taunts of a heckler who openly questions his legitimacy.

The chapter on his shameful execution describes in detail why the cross was such a scandal to people in first century Palestine. He notes how centuries of treating the cross as a decoration in the church or as a piece of jewellery has made it respectable. It is hard for us to perceive just how disgusting a crucifixion was and how it disgraced the victim, while killing him painfully and slowly. He points out that with this death, Jesus identified himself with the worst criminals of his time.

The second section begins with a chapter on the scandal of having female disciples like Mary Magdalene. More particularly, he takes his cue from Luke 8:2, that Jesus' exorcism of seven demons from Mary was 'an ancient description of mental illness'.² He argues that the western church conflated her with the "prostitute" of Luke 7:37-50 because it was easier for it to handle a reformed woman than one with the taint of mental illness.

The final section begins with a chapter on child abuse. The author argues that child sexual abuse is the target of Jesus' furious pronouncement in Matthew 18:6. He informs us that the Romans combined their immoral lifestyle and oppressive slavery in a particularly noxious way with their treatment of slave girls and boys as sex toys.

Jesus spoke out against this practice with more vehemence than anyone else of his day, and the Gospels record him speaking more stridently against this than anything else. Our society and the church have only recently learned to view this crime with as much seriousness as Jesus.³

The final chapter in this section, and of the book, is on eternal torment, Jesus' teaching on hell. He claims that Jesus taught more about hell than any other Jew of his time; 45 verses on hell, compared to 65 verses on love.⁴ He argues that Jesus' teachings were similar to common Jewish beliefs of the time, even to the point of using the imagery of the Jerusalem garbage dump, Gehenna, for hell. However, the scandal for Jewish hearers was that Jesus suggested that those who knew more about the will of God and failed to do it, would be punished more severely than those who did not know (Luke 12: 47-48). Finally, the author argues from the Greek words used, that the punishment in hell is torment followed by destruction. This is certainly an example of Jesus' teaching that still shocks today.

I have a few criticisms: in the chapter on second-rate disciples, the author has forgotten the attempt by James and John to corner the best seats in heaven: "They [the disciples] didn't care about their own reputation or greatness; they wanted only to tell the world about their rabbi Jesus".⁵

⁵ Ibid., 100.

In the chapter on embarrassing resurrection, he talks about the search for an ossuary inscribed with the names Joseph, Mary & Jesus.⁶ He seems to be unaware of the ossuary (ancient bone box) inscribed with the name: “James, son of Joseph, brother of Jesus”. This was the subject of the “forgery trial of the century” in Israel which ended in 2012 with a verdict that the inscription was “not forged”.

The author is a Senior Research Fellow at Tyndale House, Cambridge and a Baptist minister. As the blurb at the back says, the book can be read as a whole or as stand-alone chapters. It would be useful for fellowship groups looking for interesting discussion starters, as each chapter is quite short.
