Vol. 12, No. 2

FEBRUARY 2004

Theology Cataloging Bulletin, a quarterly newsletter of the Technical Services Section of the American Theological Library Association, is published during the months of November, February, May, and August. It contains listings of new and changed subject headings and classification numbers in appropriate subject areas as well as other information of interest to religion/theology catalogers.

The subject headings in section one of each issue are selected by Joanna Hause (Southeastern College, Lakeland, Florida) from the Library of Congress' Subject Headings Weekly Lists. Section two contains Library of Congress Subject Headings/DDC Numbers of Current Interest, prepared by Paul Osmanski (Marist College Library, Washington, DC), and Library of Congress Classification Additions and Changes, prepared by Eric Friede (Yale University Divinity School, New Haven, Connecticut). The general information in this publication (section three) is edited by Lynn Berg (New Brunswick Theological Seminary, New Brunswick, New Jersey). ## SECTION ONE: NEW AND CHANGED SUBJECT HEADINGS

COMPILED BY JOANNA HAUSE

The subject headings in this list were selected from the Library of Congress Subject Headings Weekly Lists, available on the Library of Congress web site at: <http://lcweb.loc.gov/catdir/cpso/cpso.html#subjects>.

This list consists of headings selected from the Library's list numbers 40–51 of 2003–04.

The following conventions are used, as in previous lists:

Headings are in a single alphabetical sequence, preceded by MARC tags. The record number (Library of Congress control number) follows the heading. The absence of the instruction [May Subd Geog] means that the heading is not to be further divided by place.

The following print constants appear:

UF = Used For
BT = Broader Term
RT = Related Term
SA = See Also

* Asterisks mark lines (or paragraphs) that are CHANGES.

Selected changes to free-floating subdivisions are at the end of the list.

SECTION TWO, PART 2: LC CLASSIFICATION
ADDITIONS AND CHANGES, B-BX
COMPILED BY ERIC FRIEDE

The entries in this list were selected from the Library of Congress, Cataloging Policy and Support Office's Library of Congress Classification Weekly List, 41 (October 8, 2003) to 51 (December 17, 2003) and 1 (January 7, 2004) to 3 (January 21, 2004).

"Weekly lists of additions and changes to the Library of Congress Classification are posted on the Cataloging Policy and Support Office web site as they are approved. This information was formerly made available in a quarterly publication entitled LC Classification: Additions and Changes. That publication ceased with List 284 (October–December 2001)."—"About the Weekly Lists" (<http://lcweb.loc.gov/catdir/cpso/wlcabt.html>). The complete weekly lists are available at: <http://lcweb.loc.gov/catdir/cpso/cpso.html#class>.

The class letter identifies the schedule and edition to which changes and additions are made. "Existing lines provided as anchor points are shown in italics, with ellipses. An asterisk at the end of a line indicates a change in an existing number, caption, etc."—From the heading preceding each list.

This list also includes some changes and additions outside the B-BX and KBR/KBU classes relating to religious topics.

SOME RUMINATIONS ON AUTHORITY WORK

BY GENE FIEG, CLAREMONT SCHOOL OF THEOLOGY

I have been asked to write an article on authority work. I thought I would describe our procedures for performing authority work here at the library at the Claremont School of Theology, make a few comments about them, and finally offer a few editorial comments.

The procedures described below are followed by our student assistants as they do the preliminary authority work for items received.

Procedures for Authority Work

A. Fields to be checked for authority work:

1. 1XX fields.
  - a. 100 (Personal name)
  - b. 110 (Corporate body)
  - c. 111 (Conference name)
  - d. 130 (Uniform title as main entry)

2. 240 field (Uniform title following a 1XX field)
3. 440 field (Series as it is in item and will be traced as such)
4. 6XX fields (Subjects)
  - a. 600 (Personal name)
  - b. 610 (Corporate body)
  - c. 611 (Conference name)
  - d. 630 (Uniform title)
5. 7XX fields (Added entries)
  - a. 700 (Personal name)
  - b. 710 (Corporate body)
  - c. 711 (Conference name)
  - d. 730 (Uniform title)
6. 8XX fields (Series traced differently field; requires a 490 1) field.
  - a. 800 (Personal name/title series; subfield $t)
  - b. 830 (Uniform title series)

B. Procedure.

1. For each of the fields, check STC authority files.
  - a. There?
    1. Yes.
      - a. Put “+” by the field.
    2. No.
      - a. Put a “0” by the field.
      - b. Move to B,2 in the procedures.
2. Check OCLC (electronic online) authority file.
  - a. There?
    1. Yes.
      - a. Put a “+” next to field (notation should read “0+”).
      - b. Print card.
    2. No.
      - a. Put “0” after the first “0” (notation should read “00”).
      - b. Move to B,3 in the procedures.

3. Check OCLC bibliographic union catalog.
  - a. Check for the form of the person's name in the 245 field.
  - b. The predominant form of the name is used (the form of the name used before any qualifiers, $c, $d, $q)
    1. qualifiers can be used if they are discovered during the search (fuller form of the name, dates, etc.)
  - c. Write out form of name on card.
    1. TOLC means "Total online cataloging" and means that you got it from a search on OCLC and the 245 field.
    2. "From book alone" means that you did not find differently titled books on the online catalog and you are taking the form of the name from the book in hand.
  - d. In 670 line put the title of the work in hand being catalogued.

As indicated above, if the students do not find an authorized name either in our database or in the online name authority, they attach the following 3 x 5 slip to the record which the cataloger can use for constructing an authority record:

AUTHORITY RECORD    ENTERED    /    /
 NAME [ ]    SUBJECT [ ]    SERIES [ ]
 FROM BOOK ALONE [ ]    TOLC [ ]    AACR2 [X]
 040            CCSC $d CCSC
 1__ __
 670 - -- _____

The cataloger, following AACR2 and the Library of Congress rule interpretations, constructs an authority record and at least inputs it into the local cataloging system. Since the cataloging department here is part of the NACO funnel project, the record is submitted to the funnel project liaison for review. After approval, the record is added to the national name authority file and then exported to our local system.

You will notice that students are not asked to routinely check geographic names. They are only required to check a geographic name if the name of the place is unfamiliar or if it is located in an area where geographic names have changed, such as in Africa and the former Soviet Union. Even when the name is familiar or seems like a good construction, it is a good idea to double-check it. A good case in point is Iona. While cataloging a recent book on the Iona Community, one geographic subject heading was Iona Island. It looked good, but after investigating where such a book might be classed, I discovered that the authorized name form was Iona (Scotland).

During their checking of the local authority file or the national name authority file, the students are urged to verify the form of the personal name and also to note the information in the 670 field to determine if the subject area of the title in that field indicates that the author of the item in hand could have written such a book. A good case in point is Karl Barth. Apparently, there are at least two of them. One of them writes on politics and has no qualifying dates after his name; you do not want to make him the author of the commentary on Romans or of the Church Dogmatics. The age of polymaths is over, although Robert Grant is not only a New Testament scholar; he is also knowledgeable about submarine warfare during World War II.

My editorial comments can be summed up by the following: every cataloger should perform authority work according to AACR2 and the LCRIs, whether or not he/she is part of NACO. It is not particularly difficult to do. For instance, the most frequently used form of a person's name, without qualifiers, is used. The qualifiers, whether they be a parenthetical fuller form of the name or dates, can be derived from an online search of a national bibliographic database such as OCLC. Not only will such work keep your own bibliographic database clear and rational; it will also supply information to those constructing names for the national name authority file with the information they need. And finally, performing such authority work on entries fulfills the implicit promise of every record that is coded as following AACR2: this record is as fully compliant with AACR2 as any authorized CONSER record.

2004 ATLA ANNUAL CONFERENCE PLANNING

Jeff Brigham, Andover Newton Theological School, sends word about programs in the works for the next annual conference being held this June in Kansas City, Missouri. Two workshops are planned, one on OCLC Windows Connexion and one on Cataloging Theological web sites (part of the ATLA project on web sites). Roundtables are planned on the following topics: management of denominational records, institutional archives, paraprofessionals and copy cataloging, reclassification projects, and managing the web. More details about these programs will be forthcoming, either on the ATLA web site and/or in the next issue of TCB.

ALWAYS LINKING: BIB RECORDS AND WORKS IN THE PUBLIC DOMAIN

Lois Reibach, Lutheran Theological Seminary (Philadelphia), reports on her project of adding links to works in the public domain to her library's bibliographic records. After reviewing an article in LC Cataloging Newslines (v. 11, no. 12, December 2003) [<http://lcweb.loc.gov/catdir/lccn/lccn1112.html>] about the Library of Congress' Web

Access to Works in the Public Domain Project, Lois decided to print out the sections of The California Digital Library [www.cdlib.org/] pertaining to religion (using its browsing capabilities) and go to work herself making local links. LC's Bibliographic Enrichment Advisory Team (BEAT) is in the process of making links on LC records for their own holdings. For a more detailed description of BEAT's projects and processes and some of the resources available, take a look at their web page www.loc.gov/catdir/beat/pub.domain.html.

This is an excellent example of the behind-the-scenes work librarians do to provide their catalog users with a value-added research experience. Thanks for sharing this with us, Lois.

BIBLICAL CRITICISM MEETS LCSH: REDACTION CRITICISM

Now we add a third method of criticism to the mix: redaction criticism (Redaktionsgeschichte). At this point, one has to ask, "What is this? And how is it different from other methods, such as the two previously discussed, form criticism and textual criticism?"

In form criticism, the goal is to get back to the oral tradition, to classify and examine the form of the stories, etc., and to find out something about the life of the church at that time. In textual criticism, the goal is to attempt to reconstruct the original wording of a text (that is now gone) by tracing its history through the extant copies of the text. In redaction criticism, the goal is to try to "discover the ideas of the author of a text."<sup>1</sup> This is done by examining a particular redactor's (editor's) text and comparing it to the source material the redactor may have had available, and then analyzing those changes to discern the perspective (theology) of the redactor. The creative role the redactor plays in this process is revealed, according to Norman Perrin, in the "collection, arrangement, editing, and modification of traditional material, and in the composition of new material or the creation of new forms within the traditions of early Christianity."<sup>2</sup> C. M. Tuckett argues that what the redactor leaves untouched (that is, preserved) is also important in illuminating the redactor's theology.<sup>3</sup> Problems encountered in the application of redaction criticism usually stem from doubts concerning the source materials, or the lack of them, making it difficult to distinguish between what is tradition and what is redaction. Another criticism of the method is that it could be debatable whether the perspective ascribed to the redactor isn't really, or at least partly, that of the interpreter.<sup>4</sup>

The most common example given of the application of redaction criticism is with the Synoptic Gospels, where Matthew and Luke, as the Two Source Hypothesis goes, use Mark and "Q" (short for Quelle, source) as their source material. By examining the way in which the redactors of Matthew and Luke have put together their texts, one can discern how their theologies differ. Tuckett provides an example when remarking that the "so-called 'doom oracle' in Matt. 23.34/Luke 11.49 is more original in its Lucan version in that it is in the form of a saying of 'the Wisdom of God'. Matthew's version has the saying as one of Jesus himself and this may reveal a facet of Matthew's christology: Jesus for Matthew takes the place of divine Wisdom."<sup>5</sup>

TCB SURVEY 2004

This survey (ever so slightly revised) was cross-posted to the ATLANTIS and ATLATech lists on January 20, 2004, to survey users and potential users of TCB. If you do not subscribe to those lists and/or have not responded on-line, please take a few minutes to respond briefly to the following seven questions. You can send your responses to Lynn Berg by mail (Gardner A. Sage Library, 21 Seminary Place, New Brunswick, NJ 08901) or by fax (732.249.5412).

The survey's goal is to help those of us who put TCB together to assess how the publication is used and how it can be improved.

- 1) Which version of TCB do you use: a) HTML? b) PDF? c) PRINT?
- 2) If you use more than one version, which one do you use the most?
- 3) How do you use TCB: a) Review upon receipt only? b) Refer to at various times as needed? c) Distribute among your staff? d) Put it in a notebook? e) Retrieve articles listed in the bibliography through ILL? f) Some other way? (please specify)
- 4) How could TCB be improved as a reference tool in regard to navigation, structure, etc.?
- 5) What issues or topics would you like to see addressed?
- 6) Can you think of another added feature that you would benefit from? (current features being the Subject Heading and Classification Number Additions and Changes, and the News and Views)
- 7) Would you be willing to contribute to the content of TCB by a) Writing on a particular topic? b) Scouting for relevant news and trends? c) Providing a review of an article or piece of software, etc.? If so, please indicate your areas of interest and experience.

Thank you so much for taking the time to respond. And please feel free to add any other comments you have concerning TCB that are not drawn out by the questions above.

OUT OF CONTEXT, BUT STILL INTERESTING

“A dirty little secret no cataloger may want to admit is that the interface of the library online catalog may make or break user confusion even more than how a title is cataloged.”

—Vera Giles (from her article listed above in the bibliography)

DEDICATIONS

“If the labor of authorship is as close to birth pangs as a man can experience, I would like to express my abiding love and gratitude to my wife Kimberly. For a better birth coach a man could not ask. I dedicate this book to her, and to our son Trevor.” (From The Christo-morphic, hermeneutical theology of H. Richard Niebuhr: shaped by Christ, by Terrence Owen Sherry.)
