Technical Services Section
American Theological Library Association

Theology Cataloging Bulletin, a quarterly newsletter of the Technical Services Section of the American Theological Library Association, is published during the months of November, February, May, and August. It contains listings of new and changed subject headings and classification numbers in appropriate subject areas as well as other information of interest to religion/theology catalogers.

The subject headings in section one of each issue are selected by Joanna Hause (Southeastern College, Lakeland, Florida) from the Library of Congress' Subject Headings Weekly Lists. Section two contains Library of Congress Subject Headings/DDC Numbers of Current Interest, prepared by Paul Osmanski (Marist College Library, Washington, DC), and Library of Congress Classification Additions and Changes, prepared by Eric Friede (Yale University Divinity School, New Haven, CT). The general information in this publication (section three) is edited by Lynn Berg (New Brunswick Theological Seminary, New Brunswick, NJ). Submissions for the newsletter should be sent to Lynn Berg at the following address:

Section One: New and Changed Subject Headings from the Library of Congress Weekly Lists
compiled by Joanna Hause

The subject headings in this list were selected from the Library of Congress Subject Headings Weekly Lists, available on the Library of Congress web site at:

lcweb.loc.gov/catdir/cpsd/cpsd.html#subjects.

This list consists of headings selected from the Library's list numbers 14–28 of 2003.

The following conventions are used, as in previous lists:

Headings are in a single alphabetical sequence, preceded by MARC tags. The record number (Library of Congress control number) follows the heading. The absence of the instruction [May Subd Geog] means that the heading is not to be further divided by place.

The following print constants appear:

UF = Used For
BT = Broader Term
RT = Related Term
SA = See Also

* Asterisks mark lines (or paragraphs) that are CHANGES.

Selected changes to free-floating subdivisions are at the end of the list.

Please send suggestions or comments to me at jhause@secollege.edu or by mail to Joanna Hause, Steelman Library, Southeastern College, 1000 Longfellow Blvd., Lakeland, FL 33801; or fax to 813.666.8196.

Summary of Decisions, Editorial Meeting Number 21

May 21, 2003

Other decisions:

September 11 Terrorist Attacks, 2001--Religious aspects

This proposal is appropriate and necessary because individual terrorist attacks are not included in the scope of the pattern list for individual wars. Instruction sheet H 1200 of the Subject Cataloging Manual will be updated to clarify this situation. If individual subdivisions are needed under headings for individual terrorist attacks, the subdivisions should be established.

Section Two, Part 1: Library of Congress Subject Headings/DDC Numbers of Current Interest
compiled by Paul Osmanski

This list of LC subject headings is selected from Weekly Lists 2002 nos. 41–48 and accompanied by candidate DDC numbers from Edition 21. The purpose of the list is to provide the classifier assistance for topics of recent interest not mentioned explicitly in Edition 21.

The DDC numbers include all headings newly mapped to the 200 Religion Schedule, as well as others considered to be of interest to theological libraries. The list is not exhaustive, and the schedules and tables should be consulted before applying a number from this list.

SUBJECT HEADING	CALL NUMBER
Cannibalism in the Bible	220.83949
Episcopalian universities and colleges	378.071373
Gigantomachy (Greek mythology)	292.13, 398.2093801
Harpies (Greek mythology)	292.13, 398.2093801
Mormons in art	704.9482
Motivation (Psychology)--Religious aspects	201.61538
Muslims in motion pictures	791.436528297
Retirees in church work	253.08696

Section Two, Part 2: LC Classification Additions and Changes, B-BX
compiled by Eric Friede, Yale Divinity Library

The entries in this list were selected from the Library of Congress, Cataloging Policy and Support Office's Library of Congress Classification Weekly List, 17 (April 23, 2003) to 30 (July 23, 2003).

“Weekly lists of additions and changes to the Library of Congress Classification are posted on the Cataloging Policy and Support Office web site as they are approved. This information was formerly made available in a quarterly publication entitled LC Classification: Additions and Changes. That publication ceased with List 284 (October–December 2001).”—“About the Weekly Lists” (lcweb.loc.gov/catdir/cpso/wlcabt.html). The complete weekly lists are available at: lcweb.loc.gov/catdir/cpso/cpso.html#class.

The class letter identifies the schedule and edition to which changes and additions are made. “Existing lines provided as anchor points are shown in italics, with ellipses. An asterisk at the end of a line indicates a change in an existing number, caption, etc.”—From the heading preceding each list.

This list also includes some changes and additions outside the B-BX and KBR/KBU classes relating to religious topics.

BIBLICAL CRITICISM MEETS LCSH

The Bible gets “criticized” a lot, in various ways, for various purposes. For catalogers who are not also professors of theology or religious studies, a basic understanding of the differences between the types of criticism applied to works about the Bible is necessary for choosing the correct headings and subheadings to use to provide the most helpful subject access to the material. A scan through the subdivisions listed under Sacred Works (H1188) in LC’s Subject Cataloging Manual (SCM), lists these:

- Canonical criticism
- Criticism, Form
- Criticism, interpretation, etc. [May Subd Geog]
- Criticism, Narrative
- Criticism, Redaction
- Criticism, Textual
- Feminist criticism [MSG]
- Reader-response criticism
- Social scientific criticism [MSG]
- Socio-rhetorical criticism [MSG]
- Structuralist criticism [MSG]

Many other types of criticism exist, each having its own benefits and drawbacks. For more information than you might possibly desire to have, you can refer to the Handbook of Biblical Criticism by Richard N. Soulen and R. Kendall Soulen (3rd ed., rev. and expanded). Those types of criticism that aren’t specifically listed in the Library of Congress subject heading list have to be put in some type of existing semi-appropriate spot, usually under $xCriticism, interpretation, etc. (one fairly massive repository). Other types of critical material may be put under the subdivision $vCommentaries (which is a form heading for critical material arranged in verse-by-verse format rather than by topic).

Usually, wording found on the title page or in the preliminary matter will specifically mention the type of criticism employed so that you won’t have to guess based on what you can surmise from the text. But, lacking glaring clues, you may need to know a little more about how to determine what you’re dealing with. Ask yourself, “What is the goal of this critical work?” Is it to reconstruct the wording of the original text? To speak to a particular audience? To discover the origins and history of the text? To determine the authenticity of the text? To discover what the text meant to the people of its time?

Hence, this attempt to describe selected types of biblical criticism for those who are new to theological cataloging, or those who are not primarily theological catalogers, or those who might simply want to know a little more about a particular topic. Not to worry, this won't be done all in one fell swoop. For now, consider "form criticism" (from the German Formgeschichte, meaning "form history"). Whole books have been written to define and evaluate form criticism (such as Edgar V. McKnight's What is Form Criticism?), so don't expect this brief description to be anywhere near comprehensive! According to F.F. Bruce, form criticism "endeavors to get behind the written Gospels and their literary sources to the oral stage of the Gospel tradition, and to classify and examine the various 'forms' or types of story, utterance, etc. represented in that oral tradition."¹ Form criticism is not limited to the Gospels, but is primarily used with them. Examples of literary forms (genres) that have been identified include myths, legends, miracle stories, sayings, parables, and narratives. Of what use is form criticism? H. McKeating does a good job of answering this question for the layperson in The Westminster Dictionary of Christian Theology.² He points out that the study of forms may help us 1) determine how the communication might have been received and interpreted by the listener or reader; 2) learn about the social settings (Sitz im Leben) in which they were used; and 3) theoretically, date a particular tradition. This is all the more difficult, as you can imagine, when you're dealing with other cultures, languages, and periods of time. Another purpose of form criticism when it was originally conceived, according to McKeating (and others), was as a means of discovering the origins and development of the various forms.

One bibliographic example using this subdivision is Gerd Theissen's The miracle stories of the early Christian tradition, translated by Francis McDonagh, edited by John Riches (ISBN: 0800607007). In this work, the table of contents and preface use wording that make it clear that this is a form-critical work. It has these two subject headings:

650 #0 Miracles.

630 00 Bible.$pN.T.$pGospels$xCriticism, Form.

Those of you who wish to amend or expand on this topic can feel free to send in your comments for inclusion in the next issue of TCB or post your thoughts on ATLATech.
