Theology Cataloging Bulletin

Vol. 26, no. 3 May 2018

ISSN 1548-8497 (online)

Theology Cataloging Bulletin (TCB), is a quarterly publication of the Technical Services Interest Group of ATLA and is published in November, February, May, and August. It contains information about new and changed Library of Congress Subject Headings (LCSH) and Library of Congress Classification (LCC) numbers compiled from the Library of Congress's monthly lists of newly approved additions, deletions, and changes in subject headings and classifications. Upcoming training opportunities, a bibliography of recently published articles, as well as other information of interest to religion/theology catalogers are also included.

Section one of each issue lists new and changed subject headings and genre/form terms and section two lists new and changed classification. Both are selected and compiled by Ann Heinrichs (Catholic Theological Union, Chicago, Illinois). Section three includes the general information and is edited by Leslie Engelson (Murray State University, Murray, Kentucky).

Submissions for the newsletter should be sent to Leslie Engelson, Technical Services Librarian, Murray State University, 224G Waterfield Library, Murray, KY 42071; E-mail: leslie.engelson@gmail.com; Fax: 270-809-5612, Phone: 270-809-4818.

Deadlines for submission are January 15 (February issue), April 15 (May issue), and July 15 (August issue), October 15 (November issue).

Appropriate types of submissions: news of upcoming events; articles on technical services issues; reviews of publications; reports on committee work done on behalf of the Technical Services Section; opinions on cataloging policies and practices; bibliographies; cataloging cartoons and anecdotes; how-to and how-not-to advice; workshop reports; summaries of papers; questions and answers on topics of concern; local cataloging department news; evaluations of software, hardware, cataloging tools and products, Web sites, etc.

Unsigned contributions are supplied by the editor.

Section One: New and Changed Headings

The headings in this list were selected from the monthly Library of Congress Subject Headings (LCSH) Approved Lists. LC's Policy and Standards Division posts these lists on the Library of Congress Cataloging and Acquisitions web site at: http://www.loc.gov/aba/cataloging/subject/weeklylists/.

The new subject headings listed here reflect the most recent information available at the time of publication. Headings in this issue's list were selected from the 2018 list numbers 01 (January 12), 02 (February 16), 03 (March 16), and 04 (April 16).

The new genre/form terms listed here came from LCSH list numbers 01, 02, 02a, and 04.

Since early 2007, the Library of Congress has been developing Library of Congress Genre/Form Terms for Library and Archival Materials (LCGFT), whose terms describe what something is rather than what it is about, as subject headings do, and are used in MARC field 655 ‡a of bibliographic records.

Examples: 655 _7 ‡a Liturgical books. ‡2 lcgft
655 _0 ‡a Shape-note hymnals.

(See full instructions in OCLC Bibliographic Formats and Standards, 655 Index Term—Genre/Form.)

No new demographic group terms in the field of theology were issued this quarter. The Library of Congress Demographic Group Terms (LCDGT) are used in MARC field 368 ‡c of name authority records. NACO participants in the ATLA funnel are encouraged to use terms from the Thesaurus of Religious Occupational Terms (TROT) when possible.

Examples: 368 _ _ ‡c Religious converts. ‡2 lcdgt
368 _ _ ‡c Rural clergy. ‡2 trot

More information about LCDGT is available at http://www.loc.gov/aba/publications/FreeLCDGT/freelcdgt.html. This website provides the draft Demographic Group Terms Manual as well as an introduction to demographic group terms, a list of approved terms in PDF format, and a link to authority records for the LCDGT vocabulary in MARC UTF-8 format.

The most updated versions of both genre/form terms and demographic group terms, along with their authority records, appear in LC's web-based subscription product, Classification Web.

In this issue of TCB, as in previous issues, the following conventions are used:

All headings are in alphabetical order. Subject headings without the instruction [May Subd Geog] are not to be further divided by place. The number in square brackets is the Library of Congress Control Number (LCCN) for that heading's authority record (not the ARN/Authority Record Number). LCCNs for new demographic group terms have the prefix dg.

All lines begin with their MARC tag. Most headings are followed by other MARC fields that occur in the authority record (e.g., 053, 450, 550, 682), along with explanatory abbreviations:

UF = Used For
BT = Broader Term
RT = Related Term

Section Two: LC Classification Additions and Changes, Class B–BX and Selected Others

The entries in this list were selected from the monthly Library of Congress Classification (LCC) Approved Lists. LC's Policy and Standards Division posts these lists on the Library of Congress Cataloging and Acquisitions web site at: http://www.loc.gov/aba/cataloging/classification/weeklylists/.

Items listed here reflect the most recent information available at the time of publication. Entries in this issue's list were selected from LCC 2018 list numbers 01 (January 15), 02 (February 19), 03 (March 19), and 04 (April 16).

The full hierarchy is provided for new and revised classification captions to show their context within the classification. Numbers that appear in square brackets are not displayed in Classification Web browse screens. They are shown on this list only to indicate the location of the corresponding caption or reference within the classification.

The class letters (B, BS, etc.) identify the schedule in which changes and additions have been made. This list also includes selected changes and additions outside the B–BX classes relating to religious topics or library science.

Searching for Dead People: Using Genealogy Tools for Name Authority Work

My fascination with genealogy began when I was 15 years old. Every week I would ride my bike to the library to scour the Internet for names, dates, and biographical details that would make my family history come alive. When my dad bought me genealogy software that enabled me to enter my data, link it to source information, and run reports for data accuracy, I became a fanatic. If I had known at the time that the cataloging profession existed, I could have predicted my future career.

Last year I began my first forays into name authority work, focusing on our special collections. Since most of the name authority records that I create or enhance are for people active in the 18th and 19th centuries, the skills I learned while doing genealogical research translate well for name authority work. Chris Evin Long discusses this connection in detail in his article, "Disambiguating the Departed,"[1] but here I will elaborate on two of the free tools that he mentions: FamilySearch and Find A Grave.

FamilySearch (https://www.familysearch.org)

FamilySearch is the most comprehensive database of free genealogical records available, though it requires you to sign up for a free account to search for records. It offers two main features of interest to NACO catalogers: Search and Family Tree. You can find records directly through the Search tab either by searching the entire records database, a geographic subset, or a specific collection, such as Iowa Delayed Birth Records, 1850-1939.

Most of the in Family Search records come from the United States, with national, state, and local sources, but it also includes records from other countries. Record types include national and state censuses, church records, military records, immigration and naturalization records, and vital records (e.g., birth, death, and marriage). You can view the full list of collections at https://www.familysearch.org/search/collection/list. Some collections are indexed only, while others include images of the original records. Though all collections are maintained by The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, original sources vary by collection. For example, the Iowa state census collections come from the Iowa State Historical Society, the United States World War II draft registration cards come from the United States National Archives, and the Netherlands civil registration records come from the Netherlands National Archives. Most of the content in FamilySearch is not indexed by Google, so you need to search the site directly and not rely on Google search results.

The Family Tree feature is a universal collaborative family tree for everyone. It has one record for each person in the tree, so if somebody has already done research on the individual in your name authority record, you could find helpful information and save yourself some searching the Search function.

For example, I recently created an authority record for C. H. Banning, who appeared on a title page as the vicar of Strood, Kent. I had no birth or death dates, nor a full name. A search in the Family Tree feature for C. H. Banning, with a geographic limit of England, retrieved the page for Charles Henry Banning, christened in Liverpool, England, in 1833. I still wasn't sure if this was my C. H. Banning, so I ran a second search using the FamilySearch button, (Figure 1) which automatically populates a search with the information from the person's page.

This retrieved results from the England and Wales Census of 1881, which recorded a Charles Henry Banning, born approximately 1834 in Liverpool, who was the Vicar of Strood in Kent (Figure 2).

[1] Chris Evin Long, "Disambiguating the Departed: Using the Genealogist's Tools to Uniquely Identify the Long Dead and Little Known," Library Resources & Technical Services 60, no. 4 (October 2016): 236–47.

I had found my man. From there I was able to formulate an authority record with dates and a full name (Figure 3).

One caveat about the profile pages: like a Wikipedia article, a Family Tree profile page can be edited by anyone with an account, so the information listed in the profile isn't always accurate. However, the profile can link to original sources from the FamilySearch database, so a check of those can help verify the information.

Find A Grave (https://www.findagrave.com)

Find A Grave is indexed in FamilySearch, but I prefer to search it separately to avoid sorting through massive amounts of search results, and you don't need an account to access the database. In addition to pictures of tombstones, some memorial pages include photographs, obituaries or transcriptions of death records. Like the Family Tree profiles in FamilySearch, Find A Grave profiles can be edited by anybody with an account, so they aren't always accurate. You'll want to ensure dates are verified by a gravestone photograph or other reliable source. Find A Grave does appear in Google search results, though with mixed success, so it's still best to search the site directly. A Google search for James Phillippo Mursell, a Baptist minister, does not retrieve the memorial page shown in Figure 4.

While Find A Grave is most useful for birth and death dates, it has other helpful information for a name authority record. I was recently trying to create a record for James Phillippo Mursell, and some references spelled his middle name as "Philippo," while others spelled it as "Phillippo." A quick search in Find A Grave retrieved his profile, which included a photograph of a memorial stone in his honor (Figure 5). There the name was spelled "Phillippo," so I took that as authoritative. As a bonus, the photograph also confirmed a birth date of 1799, which was incorrectly recorded as 1800 in some sources.

667			Some references spell the name as James Philippo, while others spell it as James Phillippo. The authorized spelling for the missionary's name that he adopted is James Phillippo, the spelling also found on his gravestone.
667			Some reference sources record the birthdate as 1800, but 1799 is the year found on his gravestone.

Thanks to Find A Grave, I could now record accurate data in the name authority record (Figure 6).

The next time you're working on a name authority record for someone in the past, try one of these tools. And if you enjoy creating name authority records, you might try researching your family tree. You'll find the two skills form a natural partnership.
